HOMESCHOOL CLASSES WINTER 2024

HOMESCHOOL

In our homeschool series, students are encouraged to form their own opinions and ask their own questions. They will create their own works of art following the Kaleidoscope process-based learning style that is essential for children to thrive. Students will work with various mediums such as printing, painting and drawing as well as sculpture, textiles, clay and mosaics in an exploratory approach to traditional subjects like math, science and literacy. This learning is hands-on and fun encouraging exploration in a safe and social environment.

Earth Explorers

Moving on from Bermuda, the younger home schoolers will learn to touch, see, feel and taste other countries around the globe in a fun new way with Earth Explorers. Throw in some wacky science experiments and lots of organic art projects, and this class promises to be an adventure.

How Artists See

Building on all that we have learned in our journey through the History of Art we will spend this year looking at How Artists See and using the book series of the same name.

Lessons will reinforce basic art concepts and techniques, while fostering an appreciation of artistic style. Importantly, it strengthens student's own unique visual abilities. By asking challenging questions, "How Artists See" teaches students to formulate ideas and responses for themselves as well as encouraging the students to ask questions of their own, all along creating work using a wide variety of mediums.
